SUNNYSIDE MINE HAS NEW OWNERS

The Sunnyside deal, which has previously been given publicity, has reached its final stages and is an accomplished fact. Control of the company has passed and now rests in the same hands that in the main control the United Eastern. A syndicate composed of Col. D. C. Jackson, Philip Wiseman, Frank A. Keith, Seeley W. Mudd and I. R. Rogers has made the purchase and now holds a controlling interest in the stock of the Sunnyside company. The deal involves the sum of $100,000.

The new owners will take charge of the property at once and the first thing they will do will be to increase the capitalization of the company from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 shares. The former management will be replaced at once and the board of directors will be superseded by a new one to be announced later by the purchasing syndicate.

The former controlling factors were Paddy Mullin, former Tom Reed foreman; W. H. Flanagan, Mike Sullivan, Leslie C. Monks and others.

The strike recently made in the Telluride adds great interest to the deal. The Sunnyside lies south of the Telluride group and is supposed to have the same ledge that has caused all the excitement, and it is believed that the Tom Reed and United Eastern mines. That the latter's controlling factors should be after this and other properties in that direction is taken as a matter of untold significance locally.

MILLS AND DOUGLAS LOOK OVER JEROME

JEROME, Aug. 15.—C. E. Mills, general manager of the Consolidated at Miami, arrived last night in company with James S. Douglas, manager of the United Verde Extension. They drove to Jerome overland via the Black Hills road, and report a very pleasant trip.

Speaking of the Black Hills route, Mr. Mills said that road is being put into better shape with three gangs of men at work at the time they came through. This is the most direct route to Jerome from Phoenix, the entire distance to be traveled is only 124 miles. The new road will have an easier grade than the old stage road previously used and when completed, Mr. Mills says it will be a decided improvement.

When questioned concerning the big company of which he is general manager, Miller stated that the July output was 11,400,000 pounds of copper, and that 1,600 tons of ore are raised daily from the mine and treated in the company's plant. Mr. Mills lived in Yavapai county a number of years, leaving here about 12 years ago, at which time he was manager for the Phelps Dodge company at the Senator. His present visit here, he stated, is solely to have another view of the country and incidentally to note the improvements and changes the later years have worked in the mining industry here.

SECRET PASS IS DEVELOPING ORE

Better ore than many imagine is being developed at Secret Pass. It has been known there by all persons who have a knowledge of the country, in general, and of its mining resources in particular, but that does not always include those persons who commonly constitute the public. Information of a couple of instances of the proving up of high grade ore in commercial quantities comes now from John Carter Anderson, a mining engineer, this summer with the Wright Exploration company, but now operating on his own account at Secret Pass.

He is helping F. S. Wilhelm to develop his claims and in a shaft that is less than 30 feet deep they have a three-foot streak that averages $45.00 a ton, but which now has pitched out of the shaft. The hole was started on the ledge. It will be sunk to the 50-foot point, and there the streak will be picked up in a cross-cut. This is only a part of the main ledge. It is 20 feet wide and averages $4 across on the surface.

The other property that requires special mention upon information brought by Mr. Anderson in the Secret Pass-Gold Top. It is another view of the country and incidentally to note the improvements and changes the later years have worked in the mining industry here.

PARTY THOUGHT LOST IS FINALLY LOCATED

A great deal of apprehension was felt for a time yesterday for the safety of Charles Luke, wife and his little brother who left here on Sunday night for Ajo where Mr. Luke is engaged in merchandising. Mr. and Mrs. Luke who had been in the city for a few days started home on Sunday night expecting to arrive there early on Monday.

Yesterday afternoon a message was received from Ajo inquiring when Mr. Luke would return. Inquiry was made first at Maricopa and then at Florence, bringing replies that he had not passed either point.

A party consisting of his father, Chairman Luke of the board of supervisors, Deputy Sheriff Ed Luke, his brother, Sheriff Adams and Charlie Cox set out on the road through Old Maricopa Pass, for there was no other way he could have gone. Later it was learned that he had arrived at Ajo having been detained by an accident near Gila Bend.

AMUSEMENTS

LITTLE VIOLA DANA
AT COLUMBIA TODAY

Viola Dana one of the daintiest and gentlest of screen artists who is a real star, and who has won her spurs in pictures makes her bow on the Metro program today at the Columbia opening with a matinee at 2 o'clock.

She comes in as play of the west and the offbeat east called "The Flower of No Man's Land," and the critics of all the eastern trade papers give her splendid recognition in the part of the little flower who through an unhappy marriage is transplanted to the east from her mountain home.

Her discovery of the former marriage of the supposed husband, who forges the formality of a divorce to wed her, sends her back to her friends in the big country, where God made men with hearts that would not seem dwarfed in the all out doors which were theirs.

An Indian, faithful servant of her father, who sticks to the little white mistress through her troubles, and finding like her in his own fashion with the cur, who is outside of the law, is one of the big things in this first picture of Viola Dana.

The Indian gives to the girl an IV marriage an arrow and tells her to send it to him broken, if she ever needs help. He responds to her appeal when the time comes and kills the betrayer of his little friend.

A corking Pathe semi-weekly with plenty to hold attention from those who respond to these splendid news subjects is served.

Added to the first time will be a one-reel comedy with Max Fisman, who many remember for his visits to Phoenix in the "Man on the Box." Seen in a clever "Lucky" McCallister My Dear. A one-reel diversified program of that value that is becoming the talk of the valley. No slides to read, comfort in every nook and the splendid organ recitals with the latest song success "Canary Cottage." If Phoenix can't have the original the Columbia will serve the music.

GERALDINE FARRAR at the Lamara

When Miss Farrar went to the Lasky studios last summer Mr. Lon Tashy, already in the line of acting in "The Explorer" and "The Unknown." His thorough knowledge of the play, "Maria Rosa," led to conferences between him and Miss Farrar over the manner in which the title role of the Spanish play should be acted. Here it was that the romance of the two noted artists began, culminating in the winter of their marriages in New York.

"Maria Rosa" which is a Paramount picture, tells the absorbing story of a young Spanish peasant girl who is admired by two youths of the village. They, apparently, are the best of friends, but jealousy takes possession of one of them and the other is falsely accused of crime on the silent testimony and placed in prison. Maria Rosa is in love with the imprisoned Andrea, but upon being told that he is dead she at last consents to marry Ramon, the jealous one. On the wedding day the convict returns and Maria Rosa, bearing a confession from the lips of Ramon, turns and kills him. His dying words are that the net was of his own making, and Maria Rosa and Andrea are united.

Lillian Gish at the Arizona

Triangle films are giving some interesting lessons in the art of living these days. It is not long since they showed Douglas Fairbanks in "The Habit of Happiness" demonstrating exercises in laughing, and now we have Lillian Gish in "An Innocent Magdalene," the newest Triangle release, taking daily lessons in family pride.

A lesson in family pride scarcely seems practicable at first blush. This is how they do it in the picture: Lillian is supposed to be the daughter of a Southern colonel, who, while living in great poverty in his old mansion, despises the new order of things about him, and has reared her in utter ignorance of the world outside. She has no companions but two old negro servants and her animal pet. But the father has incited in her through a daily lesson, the pride of her family. One day it may be to show her the gallery of family portraits with an accompanying lecture on the great gentility of their subjects; again it may be merely recounting the list of names in the record of the old family Bible. But always the lesson insidiously brings the truth home to her that she must honorably perpetuate the stainless Raleigh line.

At the Plaza

The black master indulges in a whole lot of black magic in the present installment of "The Mysteries of Myra," which will be seen at the Plaza this evening. He teaches his followers something of the elemental powers and then commands them to go follow Myra with the elemental fire. Dr. Alden has a warning that something is wrong, prepares a dodge to catch the whole scheme and places a screen around the bed of Myra for her protection. This acts very well until the servants of the black master are taught how to get away from it and then they follow her around trying their best to get her in such a position that they can burn her up before help can come. Finally they get her into an old barn on the river and then turn to and set it afire. Here occurs one of

MARKET NEWS
By R. Allyn Lewis

It is very evident that the general market wants to go up. In the face of a possible strike, which would be the most serious one the world has ever known, prices have advanced. As we read, the railroads will be obliged to make concessions. This will mean higher operating expenses. Some of them can stand it, all of the better class. The weaker roads cannot. They have had great difficulty in normal times in earning dividends. With much higher cost of operations, this will mean possible deficits. Should the increase give any balance in rates this would be a real bull argument, otherwise we would advise great discrimination in buying shares in this group.

Steel sold practically at the height of the former move, and closed with a good advance. No stock could make a better leader and no company is entitled to sell at as high a price on its earnings, financial condition and prospects as this one.

War stocks are not as active as formerly, have shown an inclination to rise. Hide and Leather was an exception which sold off two points from the high on sales of a large block by one house, presumably for a big investor who has been long on this stock for a number of years. It sells at a dividend day after tomorrow. If the balance of the country is to prosper, and prices for industrials in the stock market are warranted, this stock is certainly on the bargain counter. There is a very bullish tip on Marine common, but it is difficult to figure out much of an equity for that issue. The copper group continues strong, and the statistical position is the strongest. A break between the railroads and their employees would mean a break in the stock market, otherwise it looks higher.

$5,500,000 more gold received today. Republic 1 & Steel declared 1% on preferred, and an extra 4 per cent on account of accumulated dividends on same issue, payable Oct. 2nd to Sept. first.

Canadian Pacific year ended June 30—Gross income $10,516,675, net earnings increase $15,651,292, surplus increase $15,791,696; special income year after allowances for contingent reserves, $9,946,955.

Steel is rapidly getting near its former high $39 1/2. This stock on its merits, ought to be selling well above par.

Same crowd that put Reading up before, have been buying it the last four or five days.

Coppers, rails and steel stocks are a first class purchase.

Large producers are holding copper at $27 1/2 to $27 3/4 for Sept. deliveries.
